 European and World Statistics Day 2025
Quality Statistics and Data for Everyone

The European and World Statistics Day, celebrated on the 20th of October 2025, highlights the importance of official statistics in our society. The Central Bank of Cyprus supports this year's motto "Quality Statistics and Data for Everyone".

Statistics is a way of collecting, analysing, interpreting, presenting, and organising data.

Statistics empowers informed decisions: They provide the data and analytical tools needed to understand, manage, and predict economic activity, enabling governments to formulate effective policies, businesses to make strategic decisions, and researchers to test economic theories by quantifying issues like GDP, inflation, and employment.

Today reliable and timely statistics and indicators are more important than ever.

At the Central Bank of Cyprus, we celebrate the power of quality statistics — the cornerstone of transparency, informed policy, and public trust.

From the Balance of Payments and Monetary and Financial Statistics to Micro data (such as Securities, AnaCredit and Registries) and Climate Change Indicators, we are committed to providing reliable, accessible, and high-quality data that serve everyone — policymakers, researchers, and citizens alike. Our commitment to independence, integrity, and accountability stems from our adherence to international standards, best practices, and scientific methods, while continuously striving for innovation.

As the primary source for the collection, compilation, and dissemination of important statistics, the Central Bank of Cyprus fulfills one of its statutory tasks stemming from its participation in the euro area and the European Union.

Behind every figure stands a team dedicated to precision, consistency, and integrity — ensuring that Cyprus' economic data remain a trusted foundation for evidence-based decisions.
